

Hello,

I we are a small business in the wholesale and retail collector coin market. We have used USPS for around 15 years exclusively for shipping our orders and for the prior ~6 years have spent around $45,000 annually with USPS. Our default method for shipping is small, padded envelope, and medium flat rate boxes.

We are concerned about the October 22, 2015 notice which was sent concerning proposed changes in rates and rate calculations. I understand that Priority Express maybe changing to a weight/zoned based system, of which makes sense considering cost of air-freight. I do not fully understand if the standard priority mail shipping is going to this method of fee. If so, that would be devastating to our and numerous other businesses across the USA. Furthermore, if so, then we will most likely use another shipping vendor (depending on cost) or more likely need to shut doors.

I concur that standard shipping rates should increase and we are fully supportive of that, but would hope that this is a nominal 5-10% increase and that the same standard "if it fits, it ships" policy be used.

Please feel free to provide further information.

Scott Anderson
President, PB Coins
1077 Thorncreek Ct
Thornton, CO 80241
Scott27ne@yahoo.com
303-564-6388